My friend Col. Rycroft thinks that, as a public service, the imes should tell people how to catch salmon out in the Strait He's a little ahead of time with his proposal. The run shouldn't start for a couple of months. But he's come to the right guy when he asks me. I know the answer. It's very simple.

There are, of course, those people who believe it's desirable to catch a fish or several fish when they go fishing. That's a primitive idea—one that probably should have died as the race progressed from barbarism to savagery, or is it from savagery to barbarism. The civilized community, it seems to me, should have advanced beyond that stage.

There are, of course, those people who believe it's desirable to take the save advanced fishing. That's a Dakota Republican primary.

Roger and the other boys don't have it as easy as I would. Occasionally they snag a fish, which is disturbing, but they seem to like it. They'll even try spinner equipment just for the barbaric joy of hooking one of the wild, free creatures. If that's the way they want it, that's okay by me, but it can be pretty messy.

Still. you don't have to catch fish if you use a fly. Stan Williams was explaining the process to me the other day. Stan says there are certain types of flies that can be used all season without attracting a bite.

Of course, you might say that guys like me would be better off if we just went trolling with no hook on our lines, but you wouldn't understand. To justify his escape from the lawnmower, the weeding fork and the window cleaning rags, a guy has to convince his wife that he's actually going out on the water with the intention of replenishing the family larder. For all their sensitivity of soul, wives have a hard core of practicality, that requires an explanation like that. So you put on a fantastic lure which in effect says to the fish, "Look fellahs, I just like it out on the water. Don't be suckers and bite at this thing."

All of which doesn't help Col. Rycroft in his search for the know-how of Strait fishing. Maybe he'd better talk to Jackie Thompson or "Minty" White, who seem to have the Foul Bay record. Otherwise, he might watch the way I fish—and do the opposite.

No Place for Competition

CONSERVATIVE PARTY CANDIdates say that they propose to intro-duce the principle of competition into hospital insurance. A Conservative government would sell insurance to those who sought it, but private insurance companies would be allowed to compete with the government's offer. Thus, it is argued, the most efficient system would result, just as competition regulates the conduct of ordinary trade in goods.

This proposal appears sound until it is examined. Examination shows that the sale of hospital insurance cannot be compared to the sale of merchandise, that competition of the sort proposed cannot assure efficiency.

When merchants compete in the sale of goods it does not matter to the com munity whether one merchant or another sells them. The result is the same either way, so far as the community is con cerned, so long as the goods are bought and paid for by the purchaser.

But if hospital insurance is offered for sale by the government and by private companies in competition and many people refuse to buy it, as many would uninsured persons will still fall ill and require hospital treatment. Then who pays their bill?

In the case of ordinary goods the man who lacks money will not buy goods and there is no bill to collect. In the case of hospital insurance no one can tell when he may need hospital treatment since all are subject to illness. There always be a large hospital bill for the community to meet one way or another. If there is no universal insurance scheme large numbers of people will go to hospital, will be unable to pay and the deficit will fall on the hos-pitals which, in turn, will demand pay-ment from the community, either through the provincial or the municipal

Without a general scheme we shall have a continual struggle between the deficit-ridden hospitals and the taxridden governments. And in the end the people who buy insurance will have to pay the hospital costs of those who re-fuse to insure themselves.

It is said, and rightly, that the present insurance system is not perfect, that mistakes have been made and other mistakes, like the abolition of co-insurance, may be made.

If some issues of detail have yet to be settled by a new legislature assuredly the alternative offered by the Conservative party really will settle nothing, except the abolition of general hospital insurance. If the Liberal party is reelected on June 12. British Columbia will eral insurance scheme, protecting both the hospital user and the hospitals. If the Conservative party is elected—which is the most improbable result of the election-no one can foresee what will happen to the sick or to the hospitals'

We are asked by the Conservatives to buy a pig in a poke. No Conservative candidate has told the public what his party really intends to do about the probem of hospitalization simply because no Conservative candidate knows. All the public can know is that the Conservative party, if elected, will destroy the present scheme without devising any clear or workable alternative.

Again, it is said that private companies will offer attractive hospital insurance to private purchasers. No com-pany, however, has offered the complete hospital coverage provided by the gov-ernment scheme and no company can possibly offer it at any price below that now enforced by the government. There are no bargains to be found in this kind of merchandise.

However it is financed complete hos pital care is costly and must be paid for. No scheme, government or private, or the two in combination, can evade that cost. All that government can do, after making administration as efficient as possible, is to distribute the cost fairly through direct levies on every-body, so that the least possible number of people can escape their share of the

That is the purpose of the present system—to make sure that everybody needing it receives full hospital service and that the scheme pays for itself as it goes along. The Conservative proposal will not achieve this end.

Stepping Down From the Pedestal

DISPASSIONATE OBSERVERS OF the American scene are awaiting the emergence of the new Eisenhower-or, more properly, the new appearance he will assume now he has doffed the uniform to try on the statesman's toga,

The striking triumphs of the Eisen-hower career to date have made him a national and international hero. A grate ful country and grateful allies have be-stowed upon him their accolades for his superb accomplishments in the Second orld War and in the welding of western defensive strength. Those are achievements for which the democracies do him honor.

In their attainment he has been an American above party and an American of greater stature because of his inter-nationalism. Now he returns to his people, anxious to serve them in the highest office within their gift, but in a more confined role than that to which he has become accustomed. As a pros pective candidate for the presidency, he is the representative of one party. In opposition to him are other good Americans—Americans whose convictions on domestic policy vary widely

It is a matter of satisfaction to Eise hower admirers beyond the United States that his position on foreign af-fairs has been clearly indicated. There he is an internationalist opposed to the nism still inherent members of the party he seeks to In that role he will continue to hold his appeal not only for people of the dem-ocratic world outside the United States, but for many of his countrymen.

His friends beyond the boundaries of the United States, however, do not mark ballots in the primaries, nor in the elections in November. That is the right and responsibility of his fellow Americans only. And as they exercise their judgon candidates placed before them the international reputation of Eisen-hower will be but one factor in forming their opinions. Quite apart from the in fluence of professional politicians, his success or failure will be affected by the position he takes on domestic issues

In that sphere questions have already been raised. Few of the retired general's civilian points of view have been re-corded. Some, however, among them statements made as president of Colum bia University, are being recapitulated now. On certain matters he is reported to be to the right of his Republican rival, Senator Taft.

In the days ahead he will be asked questions for which answers will be de manded. Some of those answers may show him in a different light from that focussed upon him in his earlier-posts of distinction. The national hero has willingly, honestly and courageously stepped down from his pedestal. He responding to a duty to answer. In the process he is exposing himself to the slings and arrows of political fortune.

Whether he rises to new and greater eminence as a result of the course he has chosen remains for his fellow Americans to decide. Whatever their decision, he has already earned an exalted place in the honor roll of the de-

Winner and Still Champion...

THE BRIEF REUTERS DISPATCH yesterday that told of the abandonment of the Swiss attempt to climb Mount Everest carried little indication of the disappointment that must have accompanied the announcement.

Eleven hardy adventurers had lost a race with time. The monsoons sweeping in from India had brought their b weather, with melting snows and shift-ing ice, while the party was still some distance from the 29,000-foot peak

This was the first full-scale attack on Everest from the southwest face. The Swiss broke new ground in their attempt. But they miscalculated the monsoons a week. The Everest season is over for another year.

With disappointment at this added human failure to gain the "roof of the world" will be mingled a certain sense of relief, at least among those who have come to look upon Everest as some what of a British preserve. For many years British expeditions have attempted to scale the peak. Two Britons may even have attained it, although the secret is lost with their frozen bodies high on the wind-swept slopes.

The veteran British climber Eric Shipton last year explored the lower reaches of the southern approach, and hopes next year to lead another party to the top. The Swiss failure has left the honor

Everest still throws its challenge to human fortitude and skill, and may, in deed, for many years to come.

Tell It Not In Gath

TT IS, PERHAPS, UNFAIR TO DEmand strict logic of a political candidate at election time, but a current advertisement of the Progressive Conse ative Party seems to call for a little re explanation. Victoria, we are told, will NOW be able to afford its Yates Street fire hall and a list of donations for other worthy objectives. The reason is that the Pro-gressive Conservative Government's (sic) grant to the city will cover all these costs. The grant will be in lieu of taxes on provincial government property (this was proposed in the last legislature) but it will not be restricted to beautifying the capital city, and it will all be done "at no extra expense to the tax payer. The latter provision is the one to raise eyebrows. Any expenditures under taken by the government of British Columbia are at the expense of the taxpayers. And since residents of the city of Victoria are taxpayers of British Columbia it is difficult to see how they would escape at least part of the costs proposed by the Conservatives.

It is true the burden would be spread ound the rest of the province as well And for this reason we wonder if the advertisement is appearing anywhere but in Victoria. Will taxpayers in the interior of the province, for instance, read it with enthusiasm for the P.C.

This would appear to be a time to apply the Biblical advice: Tell it not in Gath—or Yahk, or Nakusp, or Oyama, or Telkwa.

Chips Off The Old Brock

If you want a meal of garlic, there are two methods. One is garlic soup, a ghastly dish. The other is to stick a leg of lamb full of at least two dozen cloves of garlic and then simmer it for hours . . . this, I swear, is not half bad, though it sounds awful. This dish is found in Perigord, and often left there.

ON TOP of the salad you put a small amount of chopped-up onion and parsley. When you use raw onion in salads you should remember that most of your guests hate it. So go easy on it. And after you've chopped it up, rinse. it in cold water, and then squeeze it very hard in a towel. This removes much of its crudity. It also ruins the towel for further use until washed . . . washed by itself, too, and not with hankies that might retain a faint souvenir of it if you don't believe in many rinses fessional laundries use something like 12 to 16 rinses . . . which is why they don't have to use harsh soaps, or much If I tried even six septic tank and my water heater would go on strike simultaneously.

BUT getting back to the Andalusian salad, whose rice and onions need only a few rinses, you should use a French dressing to be correct. And I think it tastes better (here) than may-onnaise. But as I just said, mayonnaise has a wonderful friendship for cold rice. never forget that. You won't, once you've

ANY QUESTIONS?

A FOLDER was left at my home, saying that the Book of Knowledge is "the great work that answers your child's questions." There are two things wrong with that statement. One is the assumption that I have only one child who asks questions. . . . I have four. My wife also asks questions, some of which I can't answer and some of which I dare not answer.

The other mistake is the implication that the Book of Knowledge will answer all or most of my children's questions. It just couldn't. Nobody could, and no

EVEN grown-up friends ask me toughies from time to time, and the Book of Knowledge would be of little help. A woman of 40 asked me the other day: "Where would you place Shelley among the poets?" I asked what she meant by "placing" him . . as far as I knew, his body was burnt on an Italian beach, because of some quarantine law, though I seemed to remember his heart was saved and placed somewhere, though I can't place it offhand. She said, "No Where does he rank in order importance? Would you place him about

She was the dearest old thing you ever met and the kindest and most helpful, and she felt guilty about accept-ing money for being useful, bless her. She gave you a new faith in human nature, even though you realized that not all humans might be as happy and willing as herself. Even when her daug ter got into trouble with a drunken sergeant, she felt it might have been worse...he might have been a private with a prison record, you know.

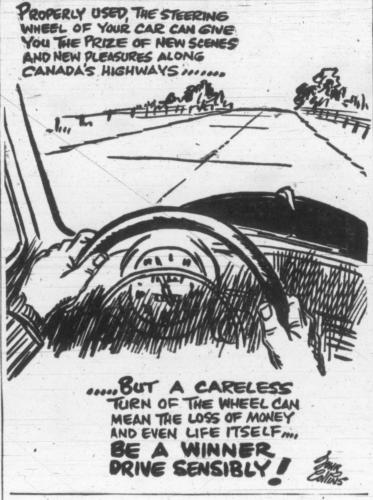

She was exactly like the old Scots woman who had a good word for every-one . . . this story cropped up in print somewhere lately . . . when they asked the old Scots lady if she had a good word for the Devil himself, she laughed, but then she added: "Well, after all, he is very industrious."

ONE DAY I had too much fire in the water heater, and the water was literally boiling. It bubbled out of the tap in a steaming jet, anxious to escape and scald somebody. I forgot to warn the dear old soul, and she plunged her hands into a basin of water just off the She let out a faint yelp, when the rest of us would have cursed till our face was as red as our hands. Then she face was as red as our nands. Then she felt guilty about having complained about something, so she said: "Oh, this lovely hot water of yours! How I envy you your constant hot water!" WANT IT DROPPED

This community club recently had the good fortune to hear Gordon Sword explain the South Vancouver Island Rang-Lake watershed. We are firmly opposed to any action by the Greater Victoria Water Board until the citizens of the districts affected understand just what is going on. Our virgin Sooke Lake forests have stood for centuries, secure and intact.

Just leave it alone! Second-growth timber does not adequately replace natural forest advantages for a watershed. It takes 20 years, or more, for the new growth to form any appreciable protection to the forest floor, to prevent quick run-off of snow and Several generations of Victorians would come and go before new could provide the present Sooke Lake corest shade and density which slows evaporation and prevents erosion. Why not leave it as is? Remember that Sooke Lake originally was a swampy valley that was dammed up to hold the run-off. If its dense vir-gin mantle of trees is slashed into our ubles there will start.

LOSING SLEEP

Children have a sleep routine. Like birds and animals they like to go to sleep at a certain time. And then along comes daylight saving time and upsets this

On hot summer evenings, especially in the Interior, things are further com-plicated by heat. On standard time the rooms have more time to cool off.

It seems to me, uncles, aunts, grandrents and parents—all would be hap pier with the children snug in their beds. Our children need their sleep to build strong minds and bodies, and to ward off summer fatigue, summer colds, and perhaps even polio. A rested child is a busy child and will work or play happily all summer long.

Let us leave the clocks alone.

SAME TREATMENT

In the issue of May 22, Mr. Gordon Fox offers only smear and innuendoes on the case of separate schools issue, which is typical of a Quebecophile attitude.

Let's leave Quebec out of the issue, even though those grand battle scarred and decorated veterans who landed recently in Seattle, from Korea, were the Royal 22nd Regt. of Montreal, and deal with all the other provinces.

The proponents of separate schools in British Columbia ask only to be accorded the same treatment, as all the other nine provinces provide, with nothing more or nothing less.

The Catholics do not boycott state schools, there were denominational schools in British Columbia considerable time before state schools were established, however, on the other hand enrollment at a Catholic school in Victoria was 30 per cent non-Catholic, very recently; would Mr. Fox suggest that parents' sole purpose was to promote ignorance and poverty, was their only reason of assur this additional family financial burden, as he stated recently.

Every taxpayer and voter has a right to know, what the attitude of a candidate soliciting his support at the polls is, regarding any public issue and in this case it becomes pressure with your correspondent, though you never hear of hospital fees, liquor, auto license fees, labor relations act plus sectional demands for local improvements given this smear.

a most apt reflection of the mood of pro-test that has devel-

the Adenauer coalition.

It will try to demonstrate to the Germans that the Bonn Republic is unable to take care adequately of West Berlin and that it is unable to bring about the reunification of Germany.

What the Bonn government would like is a few years in which it could rearm, rebuild, and prosper before it had to deal seriously with the questions of Berlin and of German unity. The spirit of the Bonn policy is to say that eventually these hard questions will have to be dealt with but let us try not a kind of political armistice, on these dangerous issues, then all kinds of measures could be taken looking toward integration, federation and the like in Western Europe.

I do not think that the Western governments are going to be allowed the free time they want in order to con-solidate these facts on the foundations of their present policy. For on the issues of German unity and of Berlin the initiative is not now in our hands but in Soviet hands. In my view we shall never recover the initiative in Germany and in Europe as long as we remain bound to a policy which can endure only if the partition of Germany continues

"One way," said the Elevator Man, "would be for us to start inventing inconveniences to balance off our conveniences. For example, we have electric re-frigerators with special quick freeze compartments and special trays for make ing ice cubes. What we need now is another attachment that will undo this harmful luxury. At a cost of only $35 or so it shouldn't be difficult to devise an attachment for the side of the refrigerator that will crush and melt ice cubes as quickly as they can be made. Then take these automatic temperature regulators for heating systems. Some little electronic gadget should be in-vented that will turn the business off whenever the temperature falls, so that you'll have to go down in the basement and stoke just as though there was no thermostat at all. You could save a lot unimprovements should be made all through our lush, luxurious way of living. The way I see it, discomfort is our

I say that advisedly because of what a great many It is my opinion that most people are just about fed up with the large amount of taxes they have to pay."

Partition And the Treaty BY WALTER LIPPMANN,

BEFORE too much is said about "the new Europe," which is, so they say, to be a federation modeled after the United States, we must remember that the eastern frontier of the new Europe is now in the middle of Germany and at the Potsdamerplatz in Berlin.

The military treaty with Germany which was signed in Paris rests on the assumption that this grim and dangerous condition of affairs will continue indefinitely. It is recognized that a reunited Germany would require a new treaty. That is why a dry and cool, rather than a hot and ardent, treatment these events is likely to save us from those excesses of hope and then of frustration which we have experienced again and

That is why the German parties both of the Left and of the Right are carefully dissociating themselves from active support of this treaty, even though, I feel sure, they realize how much Germany has gained in these negotiations. The parties of the Right and of the Left are looking to the future when, as Germany must come to the top. Even though Dr. Adenauer has done brilliantly well in restoring Germany's power, his government with its capital at Bonn has by its very nature a vested interest in the continuing partition of Germany. It is a reasonable certainty Germany. It is a reasonable certainty that the political future lies with those who are identified with the effort to end the partition of Germany.

The existing relations in Western they expect, the nationalist forces in Europe are, therefore, provisional and transitory. The practical question—which is of the greatest importance—is how long these provisional relationships will endure.

The first critical test, assuming that the treaties are ratified, will be in the West German elections of 1953. There are many indications that the tide is running against the Adenauer coalition and that it does not now have among the West German voters a dependable plurality as against the Socialists on the one hand and the neo-Nazis on the other. Events might, of course, conceivably reverse this tide and strengthen the Adenauer government.

SOVIET POLICY

In any event it is most probable that Soviet policy in Germany is directed to the 1953 West German election, and that its immediate objective is the defeat of

FEW COCKTAIL ROOMS SOUGHT!

To answer questions asked about the number of cocktail bars likely to be set up after the June 12 plebiscite, this Committee made a survey of Vancouver hotels, restaurants and cabarets.

Less than 20 will apply in Vancouver for licenses; the situation is the same elsewhere in the province. Not many can afford - or want to raise - the many thousands of dollars required to install equipment. Licenses will be hard to get - requirements of financial responsibility high, and examinations strict — judging by experience elsewhere.

Also - no government will issue licenses indiscriminately, for to do so would be political suicide.

Gyro Track Scene Of Meet June 14

The cream of B.C. Olympic track hopefuls will converge on Victoria June 14 to compete in the Olympic preview track meet at the Victoria High School Gyro track.

Performances of the competitors will be carefully scrutinized by members of the provincial selection committee who are to determine which B.C. athletes will attend the Canadian Olympic trials in Hamilton.

The Victoria meet is the first of a series on which their final decision will be based.

Industrial Designer Includes Wedgewood Range in New Home Plans

The outstanding functional design of the Wedgewood Gas Heater range with its many brilliant features, makes it a natural choice for homes of today and already it is the first choice of Western home makers.

Displayed at the 1952 B.C. Products Fair by Macdonald's Limited, 716 Yates Street, thousands of Vancouver Islanders had the opportunity of giving the sensational Wedgewood range a close inspection, and many of these are now proud owners. The time-saving, work-saving, fuel-saving features of the Wedgewood have already been tested and approved by Victorians who are enthusiastic over its performance and

Mrs. Owen Smith Jr. of 350 Sylvia Street in Victoria, delighted owner of a Wedgewood range, cannot speak too highly of it. Wife of an industrial designer, Mrs. Smith's Wedgeof it. Wife of an industrial designer, is similar weeker wood was chosen for her home by her designer husband because of its extreme functional design, combining a dependable heating unit with unsurpassed cooking facilities, plus beauty never before seen in a kitchen range. Mrs. Smith's husband has endorsed the Wedgewood Gas Heater range to the extent of including it in the plans of several new homes to be built in Victoria. to be built in Victoria.

Always a gas user, Mrs. Smith finds her fuel bill remarkably low cooking for a family of five and heating a self ably low, cooking for a failing of the contained duplex apartment. A time-saving guide, she finds, is the oven-chart temperatures which are printed on the inside of the oven door and are right there when she wishes dish she is about to prepare. A joy to keep clean, the Wedgewood is a housekeeping marvel to Mrs. Smith, who is a busy mother of three. A safety feature which automatically cuts off the flow of gas should the flame blow out, is also a great comfort in homes with children.

The Wedgewood range—with its sparkling grill, perfect-baking oven and extra-deep broiler, plus the Simmer "Keep-Warm" burners, makes it possible to prepare so many more delicious and rare dishes. With the large grill so convenient to use, Mrs. Smith says her kitchen is often the scene of gay "pancake" parties.

In her own words, Mrs. Smith ". . . hopes loads of people will buy the Wedgewood range, because they just don't know what they're missing!" Resident in Victoria for the past five months, the Smith family hails from California.

Winning features of the Wedgewood Gas Heater range are the built-in circulating heater, capable of heating a large kitchen and adjoining rooms, the fuel-saving automatic operation which provides cooking efficiency using a minimum of gas, the Fibreglas insulation which ensures a cool kitchen hen the oven is used during the warm summer months, the Twin Clock Control which turns the oven on and off auto-matically. Easy cleaning features are engineered to the highest point of convenience.

A continual source of interest and wonder—the Wedgewood Gas Heater range, which is also available for Rockgas, on display at Macdonald's Limited, 716 Yates Street in

A fire department inhalator truck, answering a call Tuesday night, collided at a suburban intersection with a small car.

The truck caught fire, careened for 200 feet and struck another car, which also burst into flames. Before the confusion cleared two more cars were eaught in the rash of collisions.

It was about this time that the fire department received that an inhalator truck wasn't

Two firemen, Capt. M. O. Howell and Percy Richards, received serious burns when they were thrown from the truck their clothes afire.

The others were less seriously injured. One of the 11 was released from hospital shortly after seaman under sentence on a bad he was admitted.

The answer is, supporters and reporters.

The reporters are there in the line of duty.

The supporters are there because they are going to vote for the candidates on the platform.

It isn't necessary to always have cake or cookies for som thing sweet. Here are two suggestions that come out of the bread box instead of the cookie jar. The first is called "Toasted Cinna-mon Squares."

To make these, cut very fresh bread in cubes about one and one-half inches in size. Spread each cube on all sides with butter and roll in a mixture made of equal amounts of fruit and brown sugar, with cinnamon to taste. Place the cubes on a buttered cookie sheet and bake in a hot oven, until they are well browned, about five minutes. They are delicious served with afternoon tea

Day-Old Bread Put to Use

The other suggestion is for "Bread Fingers." They are also easy to make and can substitute for cake. Slice day-old white bread three-quarters of an inch thick. Trim off the crusts and cut into strips, making them about three-quarters of an inch wide and two inches long. Spread the strips on all sides with condensed milk, covering well. Then roll in shredded cocoanut and brown

A type of entertaining that often poses a food problem is Dad's stag party when he entertains "the boys." They will not appreciate all the fuss and frills that the wives delight in, so everyday linens and dishes should be used.

In the food line, the home economists say that "make-your-own sandwiches' are just the thing for such a party. Thick slices of assorted breads and meats such as corned beef, salami, headcheese on balogna may be set out on the table. Cheese spreads or strong cheese are favorites, too. Don't forget the extras—mustard, chill sauce, dressings and relishes—no Dagwood-type sandwich is complete. Reminiscences at Tea Hour

Reunion of a group of friends who played bridge together in their girlhood was held at the home of Mrs. A. T. Hunkin, North Quadra Street, on Monday. It was an afternoon of remembering and reminiscing, of identifying old snapshots and pictures and of laughing at incidents that took place back down the years. Mrs. Helen Pineo came from Port Alberni for the afternoon affair and Mrs. William Young from Vancouver. Others present were Mrs. Ann Waldon, Mrs. C. W. Duck, Mrs. John Eagan, Mrs. F. M. Mc-Ann Waldon, Mrs. C. W. Duck, Mrs. John Eagan, Mrs. F. M. McGregor, Mgs. A. Partridge, Mrs. W. F. Paulin, Mrs. Ida Stewart, Mrs. W. C. Straith and Mrs. Alma Wilson. Reminiscences were continued as the group sat around the dining room table, which was centred with a bowl of golden-toned roses, for afternoon tea.

Brother and Sister on Holiday Here

Dr. Michael King and his sister, Hazel Mary, are visiting their grandmother, Mrs. Michael King, King George Terrace. Miss King arrived in Victoria two weeks ago after visiting relatives in cities across Canada en route from her home in London, Eng. Dr. King, who is stationed with the R.C.A.F. in Toronto, joined her earlier this week for a three-week holiday in this city. During the war they both attended school here and lived in Vancouver for two years before returning to England in 1945. They are the son and daughter of Dr. Paul A. H. King, London, Eng., formerly of this city, and Mrs. King. Miss King plans to return to her home in late August.

In multi-member districts where more than one member is elected, the voting procedure is the same in general as that in single-member districts, but varies in certain particulars.

In this electoral district there are three members to be elected. The voters will receive three ballots marked A, B, and C, each one a different color. Candidates of the same party will appear on different ballots. Only one member from the number of candidates listed on each ballot can be elected-therefore mark each ballot with your first choice, your Mark each one as you would in a single-member district by using the numeral 1 on each ballot, for the candidate of your first choice on that ballot; 2 for your second choice and so on. Remember each ballot must be marked to elect the three members from Victoria City electoral district. KEEP THIS FOR REFERENCE!

CON KA NO TONE WITH THE TIMES FROM ENT SUL KOL CKDA With TOMMIE WALTERS The musical comedy version of that hilarious history of England, "1066 and All That," which was presented as a "C.B.C. Wednesday Night" feature last March 4, has gone down in the record as one of the best-received productions of the past season. The well-known book by Sellar and Yeatman had been prepared for the stage by Bertand Askell been prepared for the stage by Reginald Arkeli. Eric Christmas, equally well known for his penchant for levity, in turn adapted the stage version for for levity, in turn adapted the stage version for the C.B.C., and the show went on. To say that the production was a howling success would be to put it mildly. Enthusiastic mail followed in quantity from all parts of the country, with more requests for a "repeat" than producers had received in a long time. Consequently the same show will be presented again as tonight's "C.B.C. Wednesday No 1 up-Island Fir, all chopped for your content again as tom content of the cont Night" fare. Julius Caesar landed on the shores of Englandas one of the two more important dates in British history. This, they find, raised an interesting question: Why did the Romans count backwards? After kicking this around somewhat, the story moves swiftly back to the main thread of history and on to the second date, and the arrow in Harold's eye. And so the story goes, past the "Magna Carter"—which the collaborators assure us, was a very Good Thing for everyone except the common man—and

To keep the record straight, it must be said that this history is a guide to practically nothing. It serves only as a gentle reminder that all we know about English history can scarcely be compared with all we have forgotten.

PEARKES OPPOSES PROPOSED ROUTE FOR ISLAND OUTLET

Birtoria Baily Times WEDNESDAY, JUNE 4, 1952

Major-General G. R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P., has urged federal authorities to scrap the provincial public works proposed Victoria outlet route in favor of a direct line from Douglas Street to Goldstream.

The federal government has to approve the B.C. government proposal because it pays 50 per cent of the cost.

The provincial plan calls for part of the existing road to be used in the new outlet. Gen. Pearkes believes the road should go direct to Goldstream, north of Langford Lake.

He made the recommendation after hearing protests of the announced route from J. S. Cunningham, Langford.

meanwhile, Communist defenders of beleaguered radio Berlin in the British sector cried definite army vehicle was on routine patrol on Oachnower Strasse near the U.S. Soviet zone boundary, Gen. Mathewson said.

Earlier today the Russians mysteriously relaxed half of their two-way blockade of Allied military patrols on Berlin's autobahn, allowing one eastbound U.S. military police jeep to travel the 110-mile route from west Germany

Fraser Valley Rocked Big Crater Revealed

VANCOUVER, June 4 (CP)-A huge crater, many feet deep, was under investigation of police and explosive experts today following the second mysterious explosion in the Fraser Valley within 48 hours.

It was located in Bear Creek Park, near Whalley, B.C., 15 miles south of here. It is 12 feet deep and about 200 feet long. The grass was flattened for 20 feet around.

The window-rattling explosion followed by a red arch in the sky likened to a V-2 rocket terrified hundreds of residents.
